Speaker • Coach • Workshop Leader

"HOW you want to be is more important than WHAT you want to be."™

About Kerry

Kerry Hargraves walks the playful path. Helping others find and reclaim the playful, joyful spirit we are all born with is her mission. She teaches women who are searching for their purpose in life how to reclaim their innately playful selves and create a path to true prosperity.

With over 40 years in business including 25 years in the corporate world managing manfacturing, customer service and facilities operations, several years travelling nation-wide as a productivity consultant, several businesses of her own and more than a few miscellaneous jobs, chances are Kerry has been there or done that.

One of the key lessons Kerry derived from all that experience is that playful people and playful organizations prosper.

Happiness is contageous. Join her in creating an epidemic!

Kerry-isms

- I believe within our innately playful selves is the key to a truly prosperous life.
- Living playfully isn't about doing things, it's about how we go about the things we already do.
- Love your laugh. Use it often.
